REDWOOD MAN BOUT WINNER IN SIX ROUNDS

Angelo Pappas Given
Big Ovation By Fight Fans

Angelo Pappas, Redwood City's favorite boxer, was returned victorious over Johnny Jackson of Sacramento, in the main event of the Santa Rosa Athletic Club program at Santa Rosa Tuesday evening, after a hard six-round battle. Pappas showed his ring knowledge, led in every round and after the third round had Jackson at his mercy, and apparently could have stowed him away in whatever round he named. The Santa Rosa fight fans are loud in their praises of Pappas' showing and by popular demand he was immediately signed up for a 10-round main event for May 14th, against the best opponent the promoter can find to meet him.

Pappas fights Johnny Debenedetti in San Jose Tuesday evening, May 7th, six rounds in the semi-windup on Promotor Ora Furman's card. Young Fabbri, another local prospect, is making his first start in the ring on the same card, meeting Jack Howard of Watsonville in a four-round preliminary. Fabbri has shown lots of promise in the gym and bids fair to become a boxer of renown.

A number of local fans will make the trek to San Jose to see the two local boys in action.

The new charter provides for a city council of seven members instead of the present council of five members. A new election for the extra members will be called for some date near the 11th of June. S. P. Celebrating 60th Anniversary

Southern Pacific is going to wish itself many happy returns of its sixtieth birthday May 10 and is inviting the entire Pacific slope to join in the celebration. In addition to putting on the counter a travel bargain—a round trip between any two points on Pacific lines for 60 per cent of the one fare—there is going to be a birthday party that night.

Because its family is so big—nearly 60,000 in the west and southwest—the birthday will be up in the air—broadcast by radio station KPO, San Francisco, over the Pacific coast network of the National Broadcasting Company, and Salt Lake, Utah.

Reinold Warren, famous baritone, will help to make the party a success, coming all the way from New York just to do so.

On May 10, 1869, at Promotory, Utah, the Central Pacific—first unit of the Southern Pacific—building east from Sacramento met the Union Pacific building west from Omaha.

With a silver hammer Governor Leland Stanford, one of the builders of the Central Pacific, drove a golden spike into a laurel tie—and all the country made "whoopie" over the completion of the first transcontinental railroad.

At the radio celebration May 10, from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m. Pacific Standard Time, the story of the conquest of the Sierra and of the desert—one of the epics of pioneer accomplishment—will be told. The "theme music" as they say in the movies, will be the songs and tunes of the 60's, with Reinold Warren as the principal singer.

A prize of $100 will be given to the boy or girl 18 years old or younger who sends in to KPO or to the Southern Pacific Company, San Francisco, the best account of the story told over the radio.

Warren's contribution to the program will include "Invictus," Huhn "The Railroad Cars are Coming," Rider, "The Hog Eye Man," "The Builder," Cadman, "Ben Bolt," Kness, "Zamboango," Cator; solo part in "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Donald W. Williams has been confined to his Edgewood road home this week through a serious attack of the gripe.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kellogg and Walter Jr. were called to Reno Wednesday morning by the serious illness of their son, Jack Kellogg, a student at the University of Nevada. Young Kellogg was taking part in a track meet at the university on Tuesday, when he was stricken on the field and fell unconscious. At first his condition was considered very serious and little hope was held for his recovery. Late reports, however, indicate that he is improving, and his friends feel much encouraged.

A card party will be given next Wednesday afternoon by the members of the Carmel Aid Society. The affair will take place in the rooms of the Carmel Men's Club. Mrs. B. Locatelli is chairman of the committee which is making arrangements for the event.

Mrs. Radcliffe, of Los Angeles, visited with her sister, Mrs. K. Whitehead here this week.

Miss Shelley Greets Friends On Anniversary

On Tuesday of this week one of Redwood City's pioneer residents celebrated the 80th anniversary of her birth. The occasion was made the motive of two enjoyable affairs by her friends, and she was kept busy receiving the congratulations of loving friends, for Miss Clara Shelley is loved by all who know her.

Miss Shelley was born in 1849 in New York, but came to Redwood City as a young girl with her father. Her father was one of the early carpenters of this city and built many of the first houses in the village. One he built for himself on Arguello street, near Brewster, and here the family made its home for many years. John Shelley, the father, later engaged in the carpenter work, and was the first to engage in the business here. He was a well-known character in Redwood City in early days, and was for many years secretary of Bay View Lodge of Odd Fellows.

Miss Shelley, as a girl, attended the old school which stood where the fire house now stands. This fronted on the street now known as Webster street, and gave it the then name of School House Lane. She later attended high school in Laurel Hall. Laurel Hall occupied a site on what is now the Perry Block between the highway and the railroad tracks. It was destroyed by fire in 1899, while Miss Shelley was attending school there.

Miss Shelley was a resident of this city until she was 28 years of age. At that time she and her father moved to San Francisco. They returned about 12 years later and made their home again in Redwood City. Here the father died some 23 years ago.

For 62 years Miss Shelley has been a member of the local Congregational church, having joined about seven years after the organization of that church. The history of the local church is inseparably linked with her endeavors here. For 26 years she was clerk of the board, and has always been one of the most active workers in the church. She has also been for the number of years assistant librarian in the public library here.

On Tuesday a group of ladies of this city who twenty years ago formed Miss Shelley's Sunday School class, tendered her a party for her 80th birthday. The affair was a luncheon held at the Fox Shoppe on the highway. Those present at this affair were Mrs. Caroline Woodhams, Mrs. Edna Coombs, Mrs. Louise Duxee, Mrs. Marie Irwin, Mrs. Pearl Morris and Mrs. Mary Warner.

In the evening of the same day, another group of friends met at the home of Mrs. Emmett Pipkin on Jefferson street to compliment Miss Shelley on the anniversary. Those present at that time were Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Pipkin, Mr. and Mrs. John Polgase, Mrs. John W. Poole, Mrs. A. E. McNeely, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Netherton and Miss Sallie Nelson.

Miss Shelley was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, tokens of love and esteem from many friends.

At the same time Barnwick was arrested by Chief of Police Belloni of South San Francisco on the same charge. He appeared before Justice of the Peace Edward Farrell, and was given the same sentence.

MAN ARRESTED FOR CHICKEN STEALING

John Kyle was arrested this week by Officers Thorpe of the Redwood City police force for an alleged theft of some chickens from Joe Casaretto of this city. The arrest was made on a warrant sworn to by Cassaretto. Kyle was found in San Carlos.

Shall We Go Forward? (Editorial)

Only one out of every ten towns shows an outstanding growth record; and over one-half the towns and cities in the United States are remaining stationary or actually losing ground. The fundamental law of "survival of the fittest" is being evidenced throughout our nation in this problem of community growth.

Taking a look around our own state, our own territory, we can see that changes have taken place in the standings of our neighboring towns. Have we changed? Yes, we have. But—has it been for the better or for the worse? And will it be for the better or for the worse as we continue to change in the future? We can control this to a large extent. Let's think it over and see what needs to be done and what we can do.

With the rapid rise of many towns and cities there has been brought about a type of competition that is new with this generation—a competition among communities. Community competition is not a myth—it is a dire reality. One has but to glance through the pages of our magazines to find states and cities proclaiming their advantages to the world, in the hope that they may attract new people and new industries to their community.

The fact that the business and professional men of the community have gotten together to foster community enterprises is a sign that Redwood City will not suffer from the march of time. We can intensify our spirit, build up our trade territory, and grow. Possibly in population. Possibly in enthusiasm. And surely in prosperity.

Redwood City is in the midst of this competitive struggle of progress. We cannot afford to shut our eyes to the developments going on about us. We must guard against community "dry-rot." We must register a gain in our next census.

In order for Redwood City to grow, it must deserve to grow. The surest way of deserving growth is to insure a sound foundation for growth. Just as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a community cannot be no stronger than the weakest factor in its community organization. We must study our weaknesses and properly strengthen them. We must DESERVE to be a successful community. This done, we shall see the path charted before us. Let's follow it.

Boy Scouts Plan Rally

A Boy Scout Rally will be held at the high school field tomorrow, and will be participated in by Boy Scouts from every part of the county. All lines of Scout work will be exhibited. About 800 boys are expected to take part. This is expected to be one of the biggest rallies of the year.

Kiwians Enjoy Impromptu Meeting

An extemporaneous meeting was enjoyed by members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club this week under the direction of Carl Wagner, chairman of the program committee. The committee had had a program prepared, which was unavoidably called off at the last minute, and the members had to supply most of the entertainment during the meeting.

Edward Harrison, president of the club, turned the meeting over to Carl Wagner, who secured a number of impromptu features among the club men. These included a piano selection by Belton (Dusty) Rhodes; a solo by Charles Lambert, followed by a duet by Lambert and Carl Muller; a short talk by Henry Steinberger upon his first years in Redwood City; and a number of amusing stunts arranged upon the spur of the moment. The only outside talent was P. Penna, who with his accordion, supplied a variety of musical features.

RECKLESS DRIVER GIVEN JAIL TERM

Reckless driving and driving without a license resulted in a sentence of 100 days in the county jail for John Michelson. Michelson was arrested by Officers Feeley and Walsh of Menlo Park. He was sentenced by City Judge Lawrence Cook.

The card party given Saturday evening by Lincoln Lodge, Sons of St. George in Palo Alto proved a complete success. Fifty tables were filled, and many were unable to play because of lack of room. People were present from San Jose, Oakland, Berkeley, San Francisco and many other points around the bay.

Atherton Board To Ask Change In Phone Book

Atherton will seek a situation in the phone book as an individual town. This action was begun at a meeting of the Atherton city council Tuesday afternoon. At present a part of the telephone subscribers in Atherton are located in the Palo Alto exchange; the remainder on the Redwood City exchange.

To remedy this situation Councilman Edward Eyre suggested that the matter be taken up with the telephone company. It was desired that all subscribers be located in one section of the book if possible, and that all be placed on one exchange, as at present a person phoning from one side of Atherton to the other, must pay a five cent toll charge. Residents on Selby Lane, it was pointed out, must pay five cents to phone to the city hall for the police or fire department.

The matter will be taken up with the telephone company by City Attorney Arthur H. Redington. In the event that the company cannot make the necessary arrangements a petition will be sent to the railroad commission.

School Play To Be Given May 10th

"Begger on Horseback," a three-act comedy, will be presented by the Little Theatre Guild in connection with the dramatic classes of Sequoia Union High School, Friday evening, May 10.

Mrs. Bess Balcomb is coaching the production, and it promises to be one of the best comedy plays given at the high school in recent years.

EXCHANGITES HEAR TALK ON CHAIN STORE

The effect of the chain store movement upon the individual retail merchant, was the subject of an address before members of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening by Prof. Paul Cherington of Stanford University. The speaker traced the tendency of consolidation in business from the time the railroads began to merge and then the amalgamation of the telephone companies. The idea spread with the development of business, and the result is the growth of the chain store. Prof. Cherington expressed the opinion that he did not think the independent dealer was doomed, but that better methods of merchandising and greater efficiency will have to be the slogan of the small merchants in the future.

The chairman of the meeting was Guy R. Kennedy, local manager for the Standard Oil Company.

Roy Bissell and Sidney Moore were appointed to arrange for a joint meeting with Palo Alto to be held at the Cafe de Paris on May 14. The local club will hold a dance at the Emerald Lake Club house on Saturday evening, May 11.

DECREE GRANTED TO LOCAL WOMAN

An interlocutory decree of divorce was granted last Saturday by Judge Buck to Mrs. Wilhelmina Zechman of this city from Max E. Zechman. Mrs. Zechman sued on a charge of extreme cruelty. She was awarded the custody of two minor children and $40 per month for support. She was also awarded property in Redwood City and some insurance policies.

CHECK PASSER GETS SAN QUENTIN TERM

Sheriff J. J. McGrath, with Deputy Tom Maloney, on Saturday took G. W. Guhl, Los Angeles bookkeeper, to San Quentin. Guhl was sentenced by Judge George H. Buck of this county for passing bad checks in San Mateo. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

GAMBLERS FINED BY JUDGE E. I. McAULIFFE

Fines totaling $400 were paid to Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe on Saturday by six Chinese arrested last week by Sheriff McGrath at Valtacion for gambling. The arrest was the second within ten days for the men, who last week paid Judge McAuliffe fines totaling $260 for the former offense.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Woodhams of this city have received word from their son, Roy Woodhams, who is a medical missionary in the Congo district of Africa. He writes that he has changed his location from the native settlement where he has been for several years, and is now in a tribe which has had no contact with white men since the days of the save traders of the last century. He is now seeking a suitable place for a permanent settlement in this new tribe.

BODY FOUND ON COAST IDENTIFIED AS RENE FABBRI, A GAMBLER

Identification Made Possible By Laundry Marks and Jewelry Left On Murdered Man

Late reports indicate that by means of laundry marks which were found to be those of a French laundry in San Francisco, that the body is that of a French gambler and underworld character, Rene Fabbri of 315 Hyde street. A clew to the murder it is thought will be found when a woman, known as Helen Gutsfield, with whom Fabbri had been living, can be found. She had been a patient in a San Francisco hospital for several weeks but was discharged on Tuesday.

The body of a young man, evidently an Italian, was found Tuesday at the foot of a cliff on the ocean shore road, at Rockaway Beach. The find was made by a stage driver, who noticing blood on the highway, stopped to investigate. He found the man's body where it had been thrown over the cliff after having been dragged through the brush.

An investigation of the body disclosed that the skull had been crushed by a blow on the head, and that it had been entered by four bullets, any one of three of which would have caused almost instant death.

The body is believed to be that of a Chicago gangster, who recently came to San Francisco to join a man running ring on the Pacific Coast. His death is thought to have been accomplished by a rival gang. In his hand when found was a fountain pen. It is believed that he had just signed some sort of a document, or that he had refused to sign and was killed for his refusal.

Damage Suit Filed For Crash of Plane

Suit was filed this week in the San Francisco Superior Court by A. S. Whitmore of this city against the West Coast Air Lines, Inc. The suit is the result of an airplane crash on November 2 of last year.

Whitmore was one of six passengers on a large airplane operated by the company. During a storm the plane crashed into a tree in the hills near Chico. None of the passengers nor the two pilots were killed, but some received more or less serious injuries. Among the injured was Whitmore.

In his suit he demands $27,000 for the injuries which he declares to be of a permanent nature.

Dr. W. H. Murphy gave an interesting talk before members of the Carmel Men's Council Tuesday evening. Dr. Murphy told of his recent trip to Europe.

Mrs. J. B. Boulahan, wife of the warden of San Quentin, who passed away recently, was the niece of D. K. Fraser of this city.

Clyde Higgins, a graduate of the Sequoia Union High School, and located for the past several years in Medford, Oregon, was calling on friends here last week.

90-DAY SENTENCE DRAWN FOR VAGRANCY

Charles Williams, a laborer, was this week given a 90-day sentence in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe. Williams was on probation for a former vagrancy charge when arrested by Constable Grill.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Carpenters Union are planning a whist party in the Foresters hall Monday evening, May 20, at 8:30. Mrs. Leona Fuller is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements. Score cards will be 25 cents.

One In Ten...

10% of towns and cities (only one in ten) show outstanding growth record.

Fifty per cent of the towns and cities in the United States are either stationary or are showing an actual population loss.

Seventy-five per cent of the towns and cities are falling below the normal rate of population increase.

Population isn't everything! A Community cannot be judged entirely by the number of its inhabitants. But—there is such a thing as Community "dry rot," and loss of population is the last stage in the decline or decay of a Community. The danger signals presaging this final stage, are:—lessened interest, decreased loyalty and the falling-off of business.

Every family less in a Community represents a yearly money loss of about $2,000.

Towns and cities today stand or fall on their merits—the margin of safety is small. There is no element of chance or luck—it is reduced to a definite science. And the Community that drops behind soon finds itself out of the race entirely.

Community Competition is not a myth. All members of the Community feel this new type of competition; therefore all local interests must stand or fall together.

A chain can be no stronger than its weakest link—a Community can be no stronger than the weakest factor in its Community Organization. A weakness or defect in the Community structure brings about a decline. The fall is more rapid than the rise.

Emergencies exist! Changing times—wider contacts—greater competition—have brought greater problems, but they have brought greater opportunities as well.

Shall we, as a city, reach out and grasp these limitless opportunities?

FORTUNE IS WAITING FOR "ONE IN TEN" COMMUNITIES!

Are We That One?

Expert investigation has pointed out the way—local planning based on national experience. Next week this page will take up the most essential factor in this program for

What Would Washington Wish

NEWSPAPER columns are already discussing methods of celebrating, two years hence, the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth. In 1927, under Calvin Coolidge's supervision, a National Commission was inaugurated to consider how to celebrate most worthily that event. Statues, structures of sorts, songs, speeches, are all suggestions selected by sundry statesmen or societies.

Thus far, however, no paper has proposed to its patrons the very pertinent question, "What would George himself wish?"

His desires, if known, should certainly be our first consideration. Fortunately our nation is not left in doubt in the matter. Listen to his very own words, "My first wish is to see that plague of mankind, War, banished from the earth." And, moreover, as a reason for his ardent desire he affirms "Overgrown Military Establishments are, under any form of government, inauspicious to liberty; and are to be regarded as PARTICULARLY HOSTILE to republican liberty!" Thus opened our first great General. Our latest, Pershing, has added thereto, when speaking in New York of World Disarmament, "Unless some such move be made we may well ask ourselves whether civilization does not really reach a point where it begins to destroy itself; and whether we are thus doomed to go headlong down thro' destructive war and darkness to barbarism!"

Our nation has already taken an initial step in the desired direction by declaring the Outlawry of War. The treaty of Versailles, as Lloyd George recently pointed out, agreed that the allies would disarm after Germany had disarmed; Russia and other countries have expressed their willingness. What then would be more appropriate, under our present noble President, a member of the Society of Friends, than arranging by universal agreement to disarm, and thus fulfill in the next intervening two years Washington's first wish to banish that plague of mankind, War, from the earth?

The will to agree will free the world from the idiosyncrasy and incubus of War.

What could so honor the memory of the Father of His Country?

Pacific Grove, Cal.

Good Schools

THE percentage of native-born white population that is literate is a rough indication of the general level of educational attainment of a state. There is a close agreement between the efficiency of a state's public school system a generation ago and the level of educational attainment of its citizens today.

The states with school systems ranking high a generation ago stand high today in literacy. The five states that ranked highest in school efficiency in 1900 have an average literacy in native-born white population of 99.6%. The five states lowest in public school efficiency have literacy of only 94.6%. Stated in terms of illiteracy, the five states that have maintained the poorest school systems have thirteen times as much illiteracy among their native-born white population as do the five states that have maintained the best school systems.

California has only 0.4% illiteracy among her native-born white population. North Carolina, standing at the foot of the list, has 8.2% illiteracy in her native-born white population. In other words, North Carolina, with poor schools, has 20½ times as much illiteracy (among her native-born whites) as does California with her good schools.

The long-haired men at Zion City still maintain that the earth is flat, in spite of the fact that thousands of people are sailing around it every day of the year. And then we have men—those who do not believe in advertising.

It was never yet loving that emptied the heart,
Nor giving that emptied the purse.

Keep Moving

If you can be of any possible assistance at the scene of an accident, by all means stop and do whatever lies in your power to alleviate the discomfort, or perhaps suffering, of those involved, but, states a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Safety of the National Automobile Club, if it is evident that your assistance is not required, why—KEEP MOVING. One accident is sufficient without opening an avenue for more through the blocking of traffic in the desire to satisfy one's curiosity.

The wise motorist is the one who passes the scene of an accident with as little delay as possible, allowing freedom for those endeavoring to restore conditions, to normal, and keeping the highway or city street open to the normal flow of traffic. Instead of allowing one's self the liberty of surveying the scene of an accident, a driver should proceed with extra caution through the congestion of traffic which unfortunately accumulates around such points. A moment of relaxation from the attention due the road is dangerous at any time—it is more so during the period of confusion accompanying an accident.

The desire to satisfy our curiosity as to the cause and results of some other one's misfortune may result in a temporary slackening of our own precautions with the possible result of a second accident. The duty of every driver is the operation of his vehicle in a manner which will insure the safety of those under his care, and the equal regard for all other motorists he may encounter on the highway.

Stopping at the scene of an accident, for no other purpose than the satisfaction of self interest, is not obeying the laws of common sense and reason nor is it in accordance with the moral obligation of fully protecting all those who may be affected through our actions. Let us do all within our power to render First Aid in cases where such assistance is necessary; let us endeavor to be of service through the rendition of such assistance as towing, reporting of accidents, or the summoning of the proper authorities, but—if it is evident that sufficient aid is being supplied without the addition of our help, let us do our bit, in the name of Safety First, by keeping on the move and assuring freedom from a traffic congestion with its attendant liabilities.

Blind Justice

ON Tuesday of this week two items appeared on adjoining pages of a San Francisco paper. We believe that without any comment these items form food for much thought. The first is:

SINCLAIR JAIL HAS NO BARS

Millionaire Will Serve Term in Workhouse

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Apr. 30.—Harry Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, will be spared the humiliation of looking at the world through prison bars during most of his three months' term for contempt of the Senate if he is a well behaved prisoner.

He will serve his time in the workhouse at Occoquan, Va., where bars are not the rule, rather than this district jail here, where they are. Tractable prisoners work in the open during the day, sleep in dormitories at night and have access to a bath house and recreation hall in the evening. Sinclair probably will get a clerical job. He is to surrender the middle of next week.

Wife and Children in Court as $30 Mail Thief Faces Sentence

Outside the prisoners' cage in the federal building a young wife stood sobbing today. For her skirts clung two children, wild-eyed at the strange room.

She was Mrs. Joseph H. Bender, Jr. Inside the black barred door was her husband, sentenced Monday to three years in United States penitentiary by Federal Judge Harold Louderback for stealing letters.

Wearing a cheap woolen blazer, wand and harried, Bender tried futilely to comfort his wife.

Bender had been a postal clerk for nine years. His operations, C. E. Caine, postal inspector, declared, extended over a period of nine months. Caine urged a heavy penalty for young Bender.

"Fines and jail sentences do not deter mail thieves," he told the judge.

Bender could not compute the amount of money he had extracted from letters but said it was "about $30 or $40."

Mrs. Bender is soon to be a mother again.

It will be recalled that Sinclair's operations were in connection with the infamous Teapot Dome scandal by which the government was defrauded out of millions of dollars.

After checking up our bank balance, we have decided that we have not enough yet to be dishonest. When we have made our million—then look out!

My conception of America is a land . . . where a contented and happy people, secure in their liberties, free from poverty and fear, shall have the leisure and impulse to seek a fuller life.

Some may ask where all this may lead beyond mere material progress.

It leads to a release of the energies of men and women from the dull drudgery of life to a wider vision and a higher hope. It leads to the opportunity for greater and greater service, not alone from man to man in our own land, but from our country to the whole world.—Herbert Hoover.

Old Legal Practice Needed To Make American Cities Beautiful—Former Head of National Real Estate Association Points Out Advantages of Excess Condemnation

Artistic people who wring their hands over the unsightly spots that disfigure many American cities should get together and give municipalities the power to create beauty because few of them have it, says the National Association of Real Estate Boards in its weekly lesson for property owners.

If decaying tenements are not razed, if parks are bordered by vacant lots strewn with tin cans, and if the family wash flutters shamelessly on the edge of million dollar boulevards, this is not always the fault of the city, points out the real estate association.

A city must have legal power to make public places beautiful and this power is lacking in 35 of our states, says the Association.

All modern cities need what the courts call the right of "excess condemnation," the power to take more land for public improvements than is required for the actual improvement, so its setting may be properly planned. For the "bad" spots in many of our communities are often near new streets or other public places and particularly objectionable because they form such contrasts.

Nor can a city do a thing about the unsightly remnants that line its new boulevards unless the law gives it "excess condemnation."

The Association quotes on this subject Henry G. Zander, Chicago, a former president, who during his term of office last year, advocated that all municipalities secure the right of "excess condemnation."

"Excess condemnation is a poor definition of an important function that was used to make Paris lovely," says Mr. Zander. "In practice this power can be so constructive that some other and better term should be devised for it."

Intelligently used it can build finer cities and help to raise funds to defray the expense of costly public improvements.

Some States Have This Power

"Thirteen states, most of them large ones in the east, have either amended their constitutions so as to permit excess condemnation or have enacted legislation to permit it without constitutional amendment. But even where this power has been given, it is not always used, principally because the public is not acquainted with the advantages of this practice and officials therefore hesitate to inaugurate it."

"It all starts with the right of 'eminent domain,' recognized as a necessary power of the state by notable jurists for hundreds of years. This is the power in a city, granted by the state, to take private property for uses that will promote the public welfare at the same time recompensing the owners of such property for their losses. The term 'public welfare' has been interpreted to mean also public safety, necessity, or convenience, thus the opening of a new street or the widening of a too narrow existing one can be required for public necessity or convenience."

"And no-one is troubled by this ancient right of eminent domain. It has been exercised ever since the beginning of organized government, but eminent domain does not go far enough."

"In the very phrasing of the American laws that give municipalities the right of eminent domain lies a curtailment of power that is practically bound to bring the family wash to the edge of the beautiful new boulevard. For the laws in 35 states provide that cities may take land shown to be necessary for public improvements but not an inch more. Thus in cases of street improvements invariably creates irregular parcels of land that are good for nothing but the undignified structures that rise upon them."

How Remnants Occur
"For example, a new street is to be cut through an area of diversely owned land. A street is never the exact width of so many rows of lots. It may gobble up two lines of lots entirely and then require a half or three quarters or just a small piece of the next adjoining line. If the city hasn't excess condemnation, it dare not take a fraction more, but it cannot take less, for the street must be just so wide. To be sure the owners of all the property taken are reimbursed and often the courts hold that the owners of land partially taken must be paid for the entire lot, but what happens to the pieces that are left? The city can't have them and their owners can't use them."

"As an illustration, this is what happened in the city of Chicago, when its 12th street was widened. The street widening project called for adding sufficient land to the south side of the street to give part of 12th street a width of 118 feet. This required the taking of land on the south side of the street to a depth of 68 feet. Between Wabash avenue and an alley to the east was a parcel of land with a frontage of 71 feet on Wabash avenue, extending 166 feet along 12th street to the alley. The action of the city in taking 68 feet of this property left the owner a strip of land 166 feet long and only 3 feet deep.

"Chicago now has the right of excess condemnation but at the time this parcel of land was the subject of litigation between the owner and the city. The Supreme Court of Illinois held that the city not only could not assess benefits for the widening project against such a remnant but that it should com-ate the owner for the full value of the entire parcel of which it took but 68 feet. But the city could not take this strip of land for which it had paid and it still remained a remnant, to lie idle and form a dumping place for refuse or to be put to whatever use a strip of land three feet wide would be good for.

Remnants Reduce Assessments
"The suggestion might be made that such irregular pieces be combined with adjacent land but in practice this does not work out. The municipality cannot lay down rules under which such parcels might be bought and sold; and aggrieved owners of cut-up plots, realizing the strategic location of their land, often hold out for exorbitant prices. Such remnants of land brought about by public improvements often remain vacant for many years. They are eye sores, detriment to adjoining property, and affect values for blocks."

The creation of irregular parcels of land such as the one described above cuts down materially on the revenues the city can collect for the financing of public improvements. New streets, street widening, subways, and sewers enhance the value of abutting or near by property and modern municipalities are empowered by the state to calculate the benefits of such improvements in dollars and cents and bill the property owners in such areas. But leaving remnants between an improved street and property that otherwise would abut on the new thoroughfare operates to reduce the amount the city can collect in the form of such special assessments from neighboring property. A tract of land separated only a few feet from a widened street cannot be assessed as heavily for benefits as if it had the remnant that causes all trouble, frontage on the improved street, and usually as decided by the Illinois Supreme Court) cannot be assessed at all.

"Now under the power of excess condemnation a city takes whatever land it can show is necessary to use to provide a proper setting for a public improvement, including such remnants. Then the city re-arranges such ground in a way that will best enhance the improvement, puts on the area whatever restrictions as to the character and cost of future structures which will best harmonize with the improvement or carry out its purpose, and re-sells the land. When such proceedings are carefully worked out, such transactions show a profit, as the land is bought at the market price before the improvement is made and sold at the market price brought about by the improvement. The extension of this practice should be of interest to property owners throughout a city, as all taxpayers foot the bill for the difference between the cost of public improvements and what the city can collect in benefit assessments in the improved area. No-one should object if the city, by engaging in the real estate business temporarily, can control the setting of its boulevards and help defray their cost in excess of what the ordinary benefit assessments will bring in.

Controlling the Use of Public Land
"California is one of the thirteen states that has authorized excess condemnation. An amendment to the California constitution, passed at the elections last November, permits a city or county to condemn land within 150 feet of the boundaries of the proposed improvement and, after the completion of the improvement, to convey any such real estate thus acquired and not necessary for the improvement, with reservations concerning the future use and occupation of such real estate as to protect such public works and improvements and their environs and to preserve the view, appearance, light, air, and usefulness of such public works."

"The other states that grant the power of excess condemnation are Massachusetts, Ohio, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, New York, Michigan, Virginia, Illinois, New Jersey, Connecticut and Maryland.

"Not all of the states that have so amended their constitutions have made it mandatory upon a city to impose building restrictions upon such 'excess' property in reselling it, but this is the only thorough way of handling this problem."

"But it should be pointed out that in Illinois and other states that cities taking land under 'eminent domain' secure only the right to use the land for a specific purpose. Under the existing procedure in these states if the use is abandoned then the property reverts to the original owner or owners or their heirs. Thus the city does not acquire title but only an easement to the ground. The National Association of Real Estate Boards, in urging that states grant the power of excess condemnation to their cities, advocates the passing of full title when it is taken under eminent domain. It believes that this practice would in a more orderly development cities and that if a city pays value for property for a certain use and later finds it is no longer needed for that purpose the city should be permitted to use the use of such land or sell it.

"Beautiful cities do not just happen. They are achieved as the result of careful planning. The streets of Paris stretch beyond the horizon. And the beauty of Paris was achieved through excess condemnation.

"Mr. Iceman we're glad to have you call again"

How glad the family is to have the iceman start calling again—after they've TRIED to get along without ice—or tried a substitute for an ice refrigerator.

How good it is to eat once more the fresh, savory foods that only come out of a well iced icebox. The meats and cold cuts, that have lost none of their juiciness in the correct humidity of ice cooled air. The green, delicious salads—not brittle, but just crisp enough. The delightful chilled fruits and desserts.

Nice, too, to have plenty of clear, tinkling ice in the water glasses. Plenty to freeze the ice cream with, or to have iced drinks at any time.

And all so economical! Their new icebox—smartly trim and gleaming white—was bought from the ice company at half old time prices. Their ice costs so little. And the saving in food alone more than offsets it.

Cleanliness, thriftiness, and comfort all demand a well iced refrigerator. New, handsome, efficient iceboxes are on display at your ice company, at new low prices, and on easy terms. Ask Your Ice Man.

Yes, if it is kept in a cooler. Cooler screens may keep out flies, but they let the fine dust and soot get by to settle on the food. No cooler is cold or clean enough. Get a modern icebox today.

C. P. A. Will Leave Soon On Annual Trip

The California Press Association will depart on its forty-first annual excursion from San Francisco on May 9 for a tour of southern Oregon and the northern portion of California. The outing this year will be an enjoyable one as the tour will take the penitentiaries over scenic territory not traversed by them before. They will go by Southern Pacific train from San Francisco via Truckee, Reno and Alturas, in Modoc county, where spring will be at its loveliest. There they will be met by a local committee, shown the fine country and entertained at a chicken lunch at Surprise Valley and a banquet at Alturas. The next day they will proceed by comfortable motor stages over beautiful country to Klamath Falls, Oregon, where lunch will be served. In the afternoon they will proceed by stage over the mountains and through a great forest to Medford, Oregon. Here a night will be spent at a comfortable hotel. The next morning the party will proceed again by motor bus over the famous Grant's Pass highway, through southern Oregon, stopping at the wonderful Oregon Caves for sight seeing and lunch, and then on to Del Norte County in California. Here the finest Redwood trees in the world will be found. A stop will be made to take in their beauties and receive their inspiration.

At Crescent City, most northwest city in California, the night will be spent. After that they will proceed south, still by motor bus, through more magnificent forests to the Klamath River. A short stop will be made here to see the great bridge spanning the mighty river and salmon incubator. Thence south through more delightful scenes to Eureka. Here the editors stop at the famous Eureka Inn, noted for good food, good beds and courteous treatment. Two days will be spent here and on Wednesday morning, May 15, a start will be made on the return trip, with a stop at Willits for a fine luncheon.

About 250 members of the association from all parts of California will make the trip. Those from this community who will accompany the excursion are D. E. O'Keefe and daughter, Carmel O'Keefe, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Merk, Horace Amphlett, and James D. Hedge.

Redwood Boys May Take Part In Ocean Trip

Boys of Redwood City and its vicinity 16 to 18 years of age have the opportunity of participating in the second "Hands Across the Pacific" tour which is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. of San Francisco.

But twenty representative boys from northern California will be selected to make up the party which will leave San Francisco on June 5th for a 58-day tour of the principal cities of China, Japan, Manchuria and Korea, with a stop-over at Honolulu enroute.

The purpose of the tour is to give these young men an opportunity for observation and education on international matters and to promote good will and Christian brotherhood.

Six college credits will be given for the successful completion of the outlined course which will be given under Dr. Wm. D. Fuller of the Modesto Junior College, head of the Department of Philosophy and History.

Boys making the trip must qualify before the general committee in charge, which is headed by P. E. Davis, under whose direction last year's trip was arranged. Membership in the Y. M. C. A. is not required. Through the co-operation of San Francisco business men the cost of the trip is nominal.

Outstanding men such as Dr. David T. Yul of Japan and others will supervise the program of the visitors in the various countries visited. Lloyd Caldwell of San Francisco will be general director of the tour.

Further information can be secured by calling Roy A. Hohberger, the local Y. M. C. A. Secretary, at Redwood 974.

Joe Rosa visited friends in Santa Clara during the week.

Chief Winters desires to announce that he will give a prize to every fireman turning out in full uniform to participate in the parade Monday. This inducement will no doubt cause all the fire ladders to be in line.

Miss Grace Barret will leave May 13 for a trip to St. Louis, where she will take in all the sights at the exposition. Miss Grace will accompany a group of Palo Alto tourists. Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Behrens entertained the Sequoia High School Glee Club at their home in the Robinson subdivision Thursday night. The evening was pleasantly spent with music and games.

Monday will be a gala day for Redwood City. Probably never in the history of the town has there been such a time as will be enjoyed Monday, May 2nd, and it is doubtful if such another day will be celebrated for a century to come. Redwood will not participate in the festivity alone, but the whole county will be here to help lay the cornerstone of the handsome new courthouse which will be erected.

The committee in charge of the preparations has left nothing undone to make this occasion as memorable as possible. When one looks back at the struggles which Redwood has had to retain the county seat here, it seems like a dream that the cornerstone of the new $200,000 courthouse will be put in place Monday. The different fraternal organizations of the county have taken hold of the affair with a zest and it is safe to say that nearly every fraternal organization in the county will be represented in the line of march. The exercises will be interesting and the Grand Lodge of Masons of California will have charge of the actual laying of the memorable stone. The route to be taken by the procession will be as follows: Promptly at 10:30 a. m. it will move along Main to Stambaugh, Stambaugh to Beech, Beech to Phelps, Phelps to Main, Main to A street, A street to Arguello, Arguello to 8th, counter-marching to Arguello to A street to the courthouse where the ceremonies will be held.

Services For C. Cumberston Held Monday

Funeral services were held in San Francisco Monday for Charles Elsworth Cumberston, retired merchant of San Francisco. Cumberston was for many years a resident of this city, and maintained a home on Roosevelt avenue. The house was destroyed by fire some years ago. He died Friday at his apartment at the Western Women's Club building. Funeral services were held at Gray's undertaking parlors, and the remains were shipped to New York for interment.

Cumberston had been in business in San Francisco from 1895 until his retirement in 1920. He was a manufacturer agent, and a former president of the Grocery Brokers' Association. He leaves a widow, Katherine D. Cumberston, and a son, Perry T. Cumberston of Menlo Park. Mrs. Cumberston was the first president of the Redwood City Woman's Club.

Farmers Win Some Measure Of Legislation

SACRAMENTO, May 2—(CNB)—The farmers legislative harvest this season doesn't indicate any bumper crop, and in the jam of the file during the last days of the agricultural demands may remain unheard.

Taking stock of agrarian affairs today the Trade Mark bill appears to have died in committee but an investigation into the economic problems of the farmer, including marketing, has been authorized.

Protection from inpecunious dealers through the Jespersen Trust Fund measure appears certain. This requires commission men receiving crops and collecting to keep such farmers money in a separate fund that it be not endangered by the middle-man's insolvency.

In a battle between the sportsmen and Agricultural Legislative Committee on the Garrison bill to permit fishing up and down a stream on private land the farmers won out, the bill being tabled in committee.

INDIGESTION

Perfect Digestion

Indigestion is a bodily ailment that is little understood by the layman. In trying to overcome it, it is often aggravated by pursuing wrong methods. WOODSIDE

The advent of Spring was hailed on Wednesday with a celebration in which all of Woodside joined. Planned by the Parent-Teacher Association and the school, interest in the ceremonies spread to all parts of the community. There was a parade, a procession of color and beauty. Little girls dressed as flowers, little girls in the costumes of their grandmothers, little boys representing Indians, Uncle Sam, and Robin Hood in his suit of Lincoln green. These were led by a clown band, and preceded by a real traffic officer on his motorcycle. The Queen of the May, in her royal carriage, hidden in flowers was drawn by the smallest of white horses, while her maids and attendants followed in another flower bedecked coach. After the parade had returned to the school grounds came the crowning of the May Queen.

Miss Fanny Jewett Abbott, superintendent of Schools and Miss Eleanor Freeman were guests of honor and Miss Abbott crowned Kathleen Springall queen of the festivities. Then followed the Maypole dance performed with grace and precision by twelve of the smallest of the school girls.

Ice-cream was served to all and the afternoon was spent in races and games in which the school children participated.

WATER PROBLEMS PROVE BANE OF LEGISLATORS

Last Days of Legislative Session Are Likely To Be Featured By Hot Fights By Opponents

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—(CNB)—Water, simplest of the elements, today offers the California Legislature its most complex problem.

Piling high upon its shoulders, already bowed by a tremendous burden of bills, both numerically and argumentatively, the complex plan of the joint water investigation committee continued to attract new complexities as demands for drastic additions to its scope and for reservations of the water it is intended to spread throughout the state demand action.

Added to the fight over the salt water barrier, the initial controversy between members of the committee which resulted in offering of rival constitutional amendments carrying bond proposals of $100,000 and $50,000,000 the following intricacies have developed to impel the project for controlling floods and salinity and generating power in the Sacramento; spread of water over parched lands of lower San Joaquin and $15,000,000 state aid to Santa Ana river flood control.

1. Move of power interests to raise power development at Kennett for sale to municipalities and irrigation districts primary instead of secondarily to water conservation and use.

2. Definite sentiment in Fresno and surrounding counties against relinquishing their own water for spread further south in return for water to be brought in from the north, as the committee's plan entails.

3. Demand of Kern county and other interests that the water system be taken south from Earlimart, the present paper terminal, at least to Kern river.

4. Growing sentiment for inclusion of Santa Clara county in water benefits.

5. Reaction by northern California agricultural interests against relinquishment of water for irrigation in other sections, unless positively assured their own needs will first be satisfied.

6. Division of sentiment over the considerable interest." The bill of Assemblyman H. E. Dillinger of Placerville to reserve 15 percent of water originating in counties to their use, may be modified to give specific protection to sections above Kennett dam.

If there is a deadlock over these varied water proposals, it is believed all interests will unite behind a resolution appropriating $100,000 for further study of the entire co-ordination question, including the salt water barrier to facilitate legislative action two years hence.

location of Carquinez Straits barrier, if included.

Moving in the background of this elaborate setup of claims and counterclaims is a somewhat ephemeral political atmosphere, generated by a certain apathy in high state offices, and fear that the south, the north, or this sector, the other will reject the co-ordinated water plan when and if it comes to the ballot next year if one or another of these proposals is not included or excluded.

However, the situation is far from hopeless, and probably will evolve rapidly in the last hectic days of the session and now nearing its end. The Legislature, despite its differences, has respect for its water committee and believes no one could have made a more thorough and sincere study that has this group of men including Bradford S. Crittenden, Tracy, the chairman; E. G. Adams, Livingston, Frank G. Mixer and Van Bernard, Butte City, assembly members; and Senators Edwin A. Mueller, San Diego, Ralph Swing, San Bernardino, W. R. Sharkey, Contra Costa, and H. C. Nelson, Humboldt county.

While Senator Sharkey, in his fight for the barrier has left the site open to engineers' decision, Assemblyman Frank L. Coombs is fathering a movement to locate it sufficiently far south in the straits to enable backing fresh water up Napa slough for the benefit of his constituents. This would place Vallejo behind the dam, and it is doubtful if war department and navy interests would permit this location.

has built 1481 miles of new line at a cost of 88 million dollars. Of this, 40 million dollars has been spent in Northern California and Oregon.

Through the barrier of the mighty Cascades it has created a new north and south railway. It has double-tracked its OVERLAND ROUTE line over the Sierra. A new main line has been built through Arizona. From Wendell, California, to Lakeview, Oregon, has been broad-gauged.

From less than 700 miles in 1869 to 16,520 miles today is but one way of recording Southern Pacific's 60 years of work.

Behind this cold fact of miles built is the epic story of the development of the West. A story of progress indelibly written in the traditions of the West.

—Southern Pacific still building with the West

The 60th anniversary of the driving of the Golden Spike, May 10, Southern Pacific's Golden Jubilee, finds this western railroad still building. Weaponed with crude tools, courage and vision, the early pioneer had hand-carved a way to the new West. With the vision of the pioneer, the West has carried on, and with it, step by step, Southern Pacific has built.

In the last five years Southern Pacific has built more new line than any other railroad in the United States.

"Insult" to Refuse Light

Dresden, Germany.—A Dresden appeal court has upheld a man who complained against another for refusing to give him a light on the street. The specific charge was insult and offense.

Like most laws, this law against insult and offense has a common-sense background, although it may be abused by frivolous, or childish, or spiteful application. The law is designed primarily to curb those persons who are grossly offensive and rude to their neighbors and so are likely to create breaches of the peace. A comparable law was that of the state of the United States long before prohibition, which forbade drinking alcoholic liquor on trains. Experience had proved that many times train drinkers became drunk and abusive and a menace to their fellow passengers.

The great trouble with such laws as that upheld in Dresden is that they are often wrongly applied. Any man asked for a light late at night by a burly stranger in a deserted street might well think that the old scheme of asking for a light preparatory to pulling a robbery of the wayfarer was about to be tried. Certainly, the average person in the United States looks askance at light askers in deserted streets, and more so at strangers who ask the time. Still, a law against insult and offense might be a boon for lightweights in subway crushes or would-be ticket buyers at some New York theaters.

Fines up to $100 and even imprisonment are the penalties which threaten the Germans who refuse a light to a stranger in the street anxious to light his cigarette, cigar or pipe.

This is the great surprise for the German world of smokers provided as the verdict in the case before the Dresden court of appeal.

Herr Krause, hurrying home one night last year through the streets of Dresden, had somewhat brusquely refused the request of a fellow pedestrian that he should stop and allow him to light his cigarette on the glowing end of the cigar Herr Krause was smoking.

The petitioner took Herr Krause's refusal so much to heart that he pursued him and had him arrested by a policeman, who took Herr Krause's address.

The owner of the unlighted cigarette then proceeded to sue Herr Krause before the civil court for insult and offense, which under German law is punishable with heavy fines and even imprisonment. Herr Krause was found guilty of having insulted the would-be-smoker and was sentenced to pay a small fine.

He appealed against this verdict, however, and the Dresden court of appeal absolved him from the fine, but declared at the same time that "the refusal to oblige a person with a light can constitute an insult."

There is one family there with 24 children, a dozen boasting about 20, more than 40 with 15, while the few remaining in the village average ten or twelve.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By JOHN CLARENCE FUNK

DEADLY ROMANCE

ONE afternoon recently, a man drove his family into the country. It was a beautiful day, spring was at its best, and the trip was a joyful success. Around noon the picnic lunch was spread near an old stone walled spring. Here on the back road the romance of days gone by when father had been a boy on the farm, returned to life. And the water so sparkling, and so clear!

Now for the other side of the picture. Two weeks later the parents and the two children became sick. Three weeks later all of them had gone through serious illness. The youngest child unfortunately died. The romance had been attractive but the unseen typhoid germs had got in their work. Things at the spring had not been what they seemed to be.

City dwellers take pure, clear and safe water as a matter of course. Aren't they paying taxes and water bills for just that thing? Very well, and very logical. But many urbanites forget that at the city line the filtration plant and its intelligent overseers cease to function. It therefore does not pay to become too enthusiastic over the old oaken bucket, the spring by the wayside and the antique pump.

Quite true, some states, but by no means all of them, annually check up on the highway water supplies on the main traveled routes for the protection of the motoring public. They even placard as "Safe" or "Unsafe" every individual source of supply that is likely to serve the passing automobilist. But even in these careful jurisdictions the by-roads in all probability will be missed. Better go thirsty, therefore, if the romantic water supplies cannot present clear proof of their safety.

In this connection, a word to country dwellers. Have your individual supply checked annually by a recognized laboratory. A small money outlay will be necessary but it's nothing compared to doctor bills or funeral expenses. In addition, obtain and study the literature published by your state department of health on this most important subject. Don't take any chances on your water supply no matter how good it looks or tastes. Acting upon this advice may save illness and even death.

QUACK, QUACK

THE barefaced assumption of scientific superiority displayed by quacks should be enough to settle anyone. Add to this the studio portraits of the wizards themselves, and the last vestige of appeal should be gone. But, somehow, the thing works just the other way.

The ability to fool their own horns is their only merit. Having failed in the ethical practice of their professions—medical or dental, if, indeed, they possess even these qualifications—these egotistical gentry purchase space in newspapers (when they can) and in this manner brazenly admit to the world that they have beaten it, including all the scientists and leaders of their chosen calling. Thus they are able to effect marvelous and hitherto unknown cures for as low as a dollar down! Which, it must be confessed, is low indeed.

And so it comes to pass that hundreds of thousands of dollars annually are expended by people who still believe in fairy stories. If this was all there was to it, possibly no objection would be made. If a fellow wants to throw his money away, that's his business. But when it comes to throwing health away, then the matter assumes public importance and a warning is quite justifiable.

In all fairness, quacks sometimes cure people. But their main interest usually is in the money they can extract—not in the amount of health they can bestow. As a matter of fact, many instances are on record where a physical condition has been aggravated for the sole purpose of prolonging the cure.

Indeed, sometimes the outlook as stated by this particular brand of medicine has been so unpleasantly (and untruthfully) tragic that the patient upon hearing the verdict has straightway left the office and committed suicide!

The legitimate medical profession, on the other hand, is the foundation of the nation's health. Each community has its share of honest, well-informed and experienced practitioners. What more do you need? Can you afford less?

If you are looking, therefore, for "value received" and health, don't make friends with the quacks. (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

WILD FLOWERS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

It was the last of May and along the railroad right of way as I rushed through the prairie, I could see the wild flowers blooming. Civilization has pushed them back to more remote and undisturbed regions or has utterly destroyed them, excepting in these strips of prairie land which the various plow share has not yet reached.

There were a few that they must be left undisturbed. More and more these natural gardens along railroad tracks are being put into cultivation. Wheat and oats and corn are growing in the rich soil and more the city, the flowers are disappearing.

There are wild strawberries in the grass. I can see the white blossoms as we ride by, and fast as we roll along I can see occasionally the glint of the scarlet berries ripening in the sun. I have eaten strawberries at Kankakee where they grow as big as crab apples, and I have tasted the prize varieties from a dozen sections of the country. There are none so sweet and satisfying as those we used to pick out on the prairie grass as we sought them on our hands and knees on the way from school.

There are great gardens of phlox—Sweet Williams we used to call the flower. I can still see on the touch.

The court smiled, then spoke: "Well, the ruling will do the goats no good, but it certainly will do you good. These goats must be killed."

An interpreter explained that Pasquale had already obeyed the health inspector and had driven the goats to the slaughter house.

CHARLES SUGRUE

Lured by Diamonds

Bradford, England.—Trooper Arthur Sharp, formerly of the Natal mounted police, but now living in Bradford, is convinced that he holds the key to the site of King Solomon's fabulously wealthy diamond mines.

The story goes back to Sharp's turn of duty at Port Shepstone, when he was sent by sea to Durban in command of a party of natives in charge of a dangerous prisoner, who eventually was placed in an asylum at Pietermaritzburg.

"During the voyage," Sharp related, "the prisoner threw one of the native guards overboard. I jumped in after him and rescued him. Months afterwards I was visited by an old Zulu, the father of the man I had rescued. As an expression of gratitude, he said he would reveal to me the whereabouts of a rich diamond field that had never hitherto been discovered by white men."

"I noted the location of the field, rather to please the old man than for any conviction he was really revealing to me the location of a secret diamond mine."

Finally, out of curiosity, Sharp attempted to find the mine, but failed. He returned and berated the aged Zulu, who promised personally to guide him to the field.

After a two-day march, he said, they came to a place where the characteristic "blue clay" of diamond strata was visible for a large distance.

Sharp said he hurried back to Port Shepstone to prepare equipment for mining, when he was stricken with fever. When he recovered he learned the old Zulu had died. Meanwhile doctors said Sharp was too weak to attempt another trip and they invalidated him home.

"As soon as I can get some funds together I am going back to Shepstone and see if I can't retrace the path taken by my Zulu guide," he said.

"Don't worry. I'll see that your wish is gratified," City Judge Chester L. Ducomb replied.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

The city council is planning to appeal to the railroad commission and the Santa Fe Railroad to place El Cerrito in either the Berkeley or Richmond shipping zones, in order to obtain the advantage of lower freight rates.

That contractors, architects and material men of Ventura county be given an opportunity to bid on all public work to be done within the city of Santa Paula, was adopted unanimously at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors recently. It was set forth that with many public buildings to be erected from time to time in the city and school districts nearby, opportunity for bidding should be accorded to local county people.

A net profit of $21,996.63 was made by the electrical department of the Modesto Irrigation District during March, according to the report of B. W. Crum, electrical engineer, filed with the board of directors. The gross income for the month was $41,347.47 and the expenditures were: Operation, $932.03; interest on bonds, $4,795.85; maintenance, $2,251, and depreciation, $6,371.68. Fifty-one new services and ninety-one meters were set during the month.

By an act approved in the Senate California will contribute $4000 a year as its share of the salaries paid the Superior Judges in each of the counties of the State. At present the proportion paid by the State in most of the counties much less than this sum and was fixed upon a sliding scale basis by the Legislature in 1927.

Peter Lorcanini, owner of a bonded winery near Morgan Hill, is winner in a suit for the return of about $6000 in taxes collected for wine which he alleged was wanted. Lorcanini testified that July 11, 1921, he found the bunks had been removed from several large vats of wine and thousands of gallons allowed to flood the floor and into the ground. John P. McLaughlin, internal revenue collector, insisted on collecting a tax on this wine. Lorcanini sued for its return and won in a verdict.

Professor Graham Stuart of the Stanford University, has been notified of his appointment by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace as visiting professor to a number of French universities next year. He will visit the universities of Toulouse, Montpellier and Poitiers. While in France he will continue his study of the government of Tangier, which he is pursuing under a grant from the fund which the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation has allotted to Stanford for studies in the social sciences.

A good example of citizenship, which other Tulare county residents might well emulate, has been set by R. F. Henry, of Cutler District, according to Ned Boyer of the county traffic force. Henry called traffic headquarters and reported that he had damaged the highway near his ranch by crossing it with a tractor and a plow. He stated that a portion about three feet square had been damaged and asked that an officer be sent to examine the pavement and instruct him what should be done about it. The matter was referred to the supervisor of roads in that district for repairs.

A new Southern California industry has made its appearance at Fontana, adding a product never before perfected. Harry Criss, who owns and operates large citrus groves in Fontana, has been seeking a process for satisfactorily producing an orange syrup for four years. It now has become a reality. This new syrup will provide a new year-around industry. The product itself will remain fresh indefinitely, according to Criss. It can be used on waffles, ice cream sundaes and many delicacies adaptable for syrups. The company will be known as the California Orange Syrup Company, and the manufacturing plant is located in a ten-acre grove on the Arrow Highway near Tamarind street, Fontana. This property was purchased by Criss in 1924.

Invitations have been sent to all communities in Central California to participate in the pageant parade at the fourth annual Diablo Valley Apricot Festival, which is to be held at Brentwood on June 30. There will be sections in the parade for floats and marching contingents from towns, civic organizations, fraternal organizations, and industries. Several of the nearby cities and towns have already notified the committee that they will have entries, and local organizations and individuals are making preparation for taking part on a scale so that they will not be outdone by the outsiders. Rivalry for the prizes to be awarded promises to be keen, and, as a result, the pageant-parade will be a spectacle of unusual size and interest for a community no larger than Brentwood.

The suit for an injunction by the city of Willow Glen, Santa Clara county, to prevent the Southern Pacific Company's constructing a line within the city limits is on file in Federal Court. The action was transferred from the Santa Clara County Court, and alleges the railroad company is attempting to construct tracks and operate trains through the town without asking a permit.

Work has been started on the new fisherman's wharf at Eureka which will be 300 feet in length and will adjoin the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's wharf.

Expansion of the jute mills at San Quentin, so that they may provide more grain sacks for farmers, is to be asked of the State Legislature by the Livermore Farm Bureau Center, according to present plans.

Distribution to the members of the California Almond Growers' Exchange of $500,000 representing advances on the 1928 crop and other items, will take place shortly, it has been announced. "Protection" Given Fish Is Open to Question

So poisonous is a globefish in Hawaii that it is called the deathfish. Poisonous flesh does not save the lives of individuals, but it is believed to be a sort of protection of the species, brought about by the poisoning of enemies, a theory that may seem to be taking utilitarian reasoning somewhat too far. On the other hand, spines on globefishes' bodies may have been developed for protection. Doubt may arise again when globefishes' instinct to swallow air is explained on the supposition that it is an additional safeguard against enemies. The fact remains that when a globefish is seriously disturbed, it rises to the surface, gulps air into a capacious bag, and floats on the surface, stomach upward. If this device protects a globefish from other fishes, it renders it more liable to be taken by men.

Aspirin

Billy received his quarterly report card, and as he had been absent because of a cold, which was treated with aspirin and the usual remedies, his marks were not quite as high as he wished. Sally, his five-year-old sister, wished to make him feel better, she said: "Remember, Billy, you were 'aspirined' those four days."

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headache, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of—seena and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Love Isn't So Blind

Proud Parent—No, I will never recognize an actress as my daughter-in-law.

Lovesick Son—But she isn't an actress; she only thinks she is.—Answers.

Consider the Garlic

Garlic really is not a pariah in the vegetable world. It belongs, botanically, to an aristocratic race—that of the lilies.

There's a Reason

Kind Old Lady—My goodness, but you must love that baby to death. I see you forming in line to kiss it. First Uncle—Sure, why wouldn't we? The baby just got through eating an all-day sucker.

No Used Ones Needed

"Don't you and your husband patch up your quarrels?" asked the visitor. "Dear no!" replied Mrs. Neurich, "we always can afford to have new ones."

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.
